Madame Judic accomplished her entrance on the American stage at Wallack's Theatre last night under circumstances which were much more auspicious than those which have accompanied the beginnings of local seasons of French musical comedy hitherto. This was most fitting, for however opinions may differ as to the degree of approbation which is due the newcomer as a caterer to the tastes of American playgoers, there will scarcely be two opinions as to the great superiority of Madame Judie over all her predecessors in every-thing to at goes to make up refined art in her province. She was greeted by an audience as numerous as the theatre would accommodate. She was welcomed right heartily, though not boisterously. She was listened to with earnest attention, and must have derived considerable satisfaction from the fact that the majority of her auditors understood her, and apprethe majority of her auditors understood her, and appeared the qualities which make her representations unique. This fact spoke for the intelligence of the people. Visitors to Wallack's during the Judic season will have it impressed on them at the very outset of the evening that the chief character of the play is directing her appeals for recognized. character of the play is directing her appeals for recognition from a greater intellectual and artistic altitude that they have been accustomed to in the repre-sentatives of the Bonies Parisiens and the Variétés. If they wish to enjoy what she offers in the fainess of its merit, they must take with them new expectations and think less of kicks and capers and more of delicate nuances of meaning in the lines, of the play of features in a lovely face and the bewitching cadences of a beautiful voice.

It was questioned last night by old observers whether Madame Judie had acted wisely in choosing "Mile. Nitouche"in which to present herself to a stranger public The comedy is an excellent vehicle for her art, but it presents it in an etherealized state, and a public accus tomed to fun and frolic in French operetta is apt to need time to recover from the first surprise, and then again time to become inbued with the new spirit before hearty enjoyment sets in. Besides the character enacted by Madame Judic is that of a school girl, and though there is dewy freshness in her eyes and voice, there is an accentuation of maturity in hor "generously upholstered" figure as some witty German has described her embonpoint. This drawback exists until, like the first surprise at the difference between expectation and realization, it is obliterated by the potency of the cifted woman's art. A slight advantage in favor of the piece existed in the fact that Miss Lotta had made it familiar in a degree by producing it hast season in an English version. Then again it achieves that momentous matter, an introduction, in a manner which is especially happy. Madame Judic is he personiheation of demureness. Her deep, dark, mosts tyes lowked out in wonderment from under her convent vell on everything that is not a part of convent life. Like the little maids in "The Mikado" what in the world this eath can be," what in the world this eath can be, "This normal state of sweet simplicity is momentarily changed by flashes of the most artless but uncontrollable gayety, and in these moments her nerriment is as infectious as her demure—and wide-eyed modesty is charming at all other times. Her personal appearance emphasizes both effects. It would be difficult to draw the line between the fascination which goes out from her as a woman, having its fountain-head in that blending of all the graces of speech, bearing, manner and feature, and the charm which springs from her art. They are one thing, and it is because of this that we regret that wallack's Theatre is so large that only a portion of the addence can get within the circle of magnetism which surrounds her. To those within that circle Madame Judic plays that circle is not a most insinuating restiminess marks every phrase. She is the only one of the representatives of opera bouffernow before the public who sings as well as she acts. And she sings as she acts—just as demurely, just as gentle voice, and a most insinuating restiminess marks every phrase. She is the only one of the representatives of opera bouffernow before the public who sings as well as she acts. And she sings as she acts—just as demurely, just as reposefully, exclading harsh or unmusical tones as rigidity as she does vulgar gestures and unseemly attitudes. With features that might hot stand the classical test in all particulars realization, it is obliterated by the potency of the gifted woman's art. A slight advantage in

IN THE HOUSE AND LOBBY. Few of the many foreign artists who have visited this country within the past few years have been Post, John Mackay, Roseiba Beecher, Rudolph Aronson and John B. Schoedel, of Beston. The chat in the lobby seemed to be all of one tenor, and that favorable to the artist. It was announced that there was over $5,000 in the house, an amount not even equalled by the opening night of Mrs. Langtry, which fell short of this by about $500.

"THE CZAR AND ZIMMERMANN."

The winter season opened auspiciously last evening at the Thalia Theatre with the representation of Albert Lortzing's three act comic opera, the "Czar and Zimmermann," by the Thalia Opera Company. The theatre never was more crowded, and " standing froom only" was hung on the outer doors long before the curtain was raised. The old and new faces in the troupe were greeted with hearty welcomes by the audience, and laughter and applause were heard from the beginning to the end of the opera. Everything passed off smoothly with the exception of a slight tendency on the part of the tenors in the chorus to drag and finish their parts after the other voices were through. Gustav Amberg was the The principal characters were: Otto Rattlens, as Peter I., Crar of Russia; Edward Elsbach, as Peter Iranow; Ludwig Zichmann, as Van Bett, the Burgo master of Sardam; Hannan Norbert Hagen, as Maria the nelce of Van Bett; Walter Hoffman, as General Lefort, the Russian Ambassador; Franz Badwitz, as Lord Syndam, the English Ambassador; Franz Badwitz, as Lord Syndam, the English Ambassador; Franz Badwitz, as the Marynis Chateauneuf, the French Ambassador, and Eugenie Schmitz, as Mrs. Brouce, a ship-wright's widow. The favorite baritone aria in the third act, "In childhood with crown and with seeptre I played," was so acceptably rendered that the nudlence would not be denied a repetition. Miss Hagen, the new soprano, with her sprightly manner, fresh and sweet, though not strong voice, and evident desire to faithfully represent the coquettish Maria, was warmly received and kept the audience in the best of humor by her playful antics with her lover. Unassuming and modest, though strong and face, she bids fair to become a favorite with the Germun opera-goers. Rattjens, as Peter L. Czar of Eussia ; Edward Elsbach, as

A SOUVENIR NIGHT AT THE CASINO.

Despite the powerful attraction to the public in the opening night of Judic at Wallack's, the Casine last night was filled to the very doors. The occasion was the celebration of the 100th performance of "Nanon," and Mr. Aronson is to be congratulated on the goodwill of his friends evinced by last night's attendance. Seldom has the bright little opera gone with tendance. Seldom has the bright little opera gone with more dash and spirit. Every one, including the audience, seemed to be in the best of humors, and the stage was completely covered more than once with the floral tributes passed on to it by admirers of the several artists. A dainty sourceir was distributed among the audience. It consisted of a pretty abum, containing views of the performance and of the house tied together with rich satin ribbon. It will form a pleasant reminder of a pleasant occasion.

MR. TILLOTSON IN MR. CAMPBELL'S PLACE Bartley Campbell left town vesterday morning for San Francisco, whither Mr. De Belleville and Miss Stuart of his company had preceded him. At the Fourteenth Street Theatre W. W. Tillotson was found installed in the manager's office. He said: "I am not sorry to get back into harness once more, though the sorry to get back into harness once more, though the move was the last I had expected to make. On examining into Mr. Campbell's affairs, however, I found that there was every prospect of success to be expected. Matters had merely got a trifle mixed, but in the course of a few weeks, I think, they will be straightened out and everything will go on smoothly. We have stranged for the withdrawal of 'Paquifa' on Saturday on terms perfectly satisfactory to the company. I trust 'Evangeline,' which is produced next week, will be as successful in the future as it has been in the past."

PREPARATIONS TO MEET MISS ANDERSON. Marcus Mayer, the representative of Mr. Abbey, who has been in New-York for some weeks arranging for Miss Anderson's season, was busy yesterday with the preparations which will be made for meeting the actress on her arrival next Monday. The Cygnus will go down the bay to meet her and Miss Anderson and Mr. Abbey will probably be taken on board and brought up to the city. "One thing I have to tell you," Baid Mr. Mayer, "which seems hardly credible. Mr. Perry, of the Star Theatre box-office, has just told me that the line has already begun to form for the purchase of tickets, the sale of which does not begin till next Wednesday. Fact, I assure you."

a few weeks ago to take effect on October 1. Last evening fifty or more of the employes in his different departments made his retirement the occasion to express to him their regard for him and their regret at his retirement by presenting to him a series of complimentary resolutions at his home. The resolutions were heartfully engrossed and framed. The evening was made extremely pleasant by Mr. Brown and his family.

GENERAL LOGAN'S ESTIMATE OF GRANT. THE DEAD HERO AS HE APPEARED TO ONE WHO

CLOSELY WATCHED HIS CAREER. Washington, Oct. 1 .- Services in memory of General Grant were held this evening under the auspices of the local commandery of the Grand Army of the Republic in the Metropolitan Church of this city, at which General Grant was a regular attendant during his Presidential term. The auditorium, which is one of the largest in this city, was crowded. Funeral chimes were rung from 7 to 8 o'clock. A notable feature of the services was the chanting and the singing of war songs by the St. Cecilia Ladies' Quartette. General John A. Logan, the orator of the occasion, was introduced and warmly welcomed with clapping of hands by the audience. His speech was frequently interruped by the plandits. General Logan's address embodied a recital, from the standpoint of a personal observer, of the military history of General Graut. He began with his own first meeting with Grant at Springfield, Iil.; touched briefly upon the steps in his upward progress, the battles fought and won, and the campaigns planned and carried out. He alluded to the "jealousy and littleness" of General Halleck, when Grant's superior, in keeping him almost a prisoner at Fort Henry, and described briefly the events of Grant's civil career and the honors showered upon him by his own people at home and by men and Nations abroad.

"From Belmont to the siege of Vicksburg," said General Logan in his summing up, "I was near him in near-ly all his marches, campaigns and battles. During my term as commander of Vicksburg I was with him almost every day, and down to the last painful days of his memorable life I was with him often. During all this while I was a close observer of him. Grant was usually known and recognized as a quiet and silent man, but when engaged in conversation on any subject in which he felt an interest there were few who excelled him as a conversationalist. He wrote tersely well and at times most eloquently. His coolness, his perception, his aptness in using the right word in the right place and doing the right thing at the right time were at the bottom of his success as a civil magistrate, just as his great faculty of doing the right thing at the right time and place, and some-times in the most unexpected manner was at the bottom of his military success. It has been said that Grant was not a strategist. In my belief he was without a rival cliner as a strategist or commander. He was greater as a military commander than Washington, Napoleon, Wellington, Mariborough, the Prince of Orange, Frederick, Charlemagne, Hannbal or Sciplo Africanus, and coming centuries will give him a rank equal, if not superior, to that of Julius Casar, and when the mists thrown around his civil administration by partisan enemies shall be dispelled, it will equal in glory any administration of the past. Duty was with him a living principle. Nothing could swerve him from a course he believed to be right. He was conscientions, just, truthful, courageous and magnanimous. He stood by his friends and forgave his enemies. He fought not for glory, but to save his country. When criticized and censared, when the clouds of calumny hung about him, he shood with folded arms amid the thunders, witnessing the wrath of his enemies, but he spoke not in his own defence. Time finally dispelled the clouds and left in the sunlich of honest judgment. Then his licart was found pure. He believed in the justice of God, and that, sooner or later, He would, by some means, guide him as commander of our armies to the line where justice would take the place of wrong, and 'man's inhumanity to man' be properly rebuked." of his military success. It has been said that Grant was

A WEDDING IN LENOX.

LENOX, Mass., Oct. 1 (Special) .- All the autumn visitors at this place were interested to-day in the wedding of Miss Alice Taintor Kneeland, daughter of Charies Kneeland, jr., and Henry Whitney Munroe, son of the late John Munroe, of Paris, and now a member of the banking house of John Munroe & Co., in Nassau-st., New-York. The ceremony took place in Trinity Prot estant Episcopal Church, and the little old-fashioned white edifice was transformed into an autumn bower. The unstained windows were covered with brilliant maple leaves, while the whole of the walls were covered by palm leaves. The chancel rail and window casing were heavily festooned with evergreen and autumn leaves and festoons hung from the ceiling. The font was covered with marigolds, tube roses, asters, lilies, dahlias and gladioli. Every pew in visited this country within the past few years have been so fortunate in securing favorable any plees under which to make their first bow to the public as was Mme. Judic last night. Early in the season though it was—so early that most of the better known theatre-goers are still out of town—the house was crowded with an audience by far the greater number of whom were people of consequence in their respective circles. ONE OF RUGG'S VICTIMS DYING. Word was taken to Glen Cove, L. I., yesterday that Garret Maybee, one of the victims of the mur-derer Rugg's flendishness, was dying at the house of his son-in-law, W. H. Simonson, at Gien Head. Mr. Maybee is blind and paralyzed. He has been confined to his bed ever since the day that his wife and daughter were mur-dered at Brookville, and has never recovered from the effects of the shock and the blows that Rugg inflicted on his head.

GUILTY OF NEGLECT OR ABUSE.

[From The Nortatown (Penn.) Revold.

He has either given no attention to the public The flas cittler given no attention to the public duties which he is paid to discharge, or chas discharged them in such a way as largely to serve his private interests. In other words, he is accused of having traded on his official position, and his excuse and response is that he merely neglected his official duties. By his own account, and by the account of his accusers, he has been derelict, and his dereliction in one shape or the other must therefore be regarded as an accepted fact.

DOES GARLAND CONCUR WITH ROGERS !
From The New-Haven Pathaddusa.
It is no wonder that The THEBINS on receiving this letter telegraphed Mr. Rogers regarding it. His answer was: "The letter is all right." Perhaps he thinks so.
But we doubt if Attorney-General Garland is of that

CONDEMNED BY ROGERS'S EXCULPATIONS. CONDEMNED BY ROGERY'S EXCULTATIONS.

If Mr. Rogers tells the truth and is a same person, his letter places the Attorney-General in a very equivocal position, being in effect a confession that a subterfuge has been resorted to to procure the consent of the Department of Justice to suits directly in the interest of the Attorney-General, and that Mr. Garland weakly consented thereto. The very circumstances by which Mr. Rogers thinks to exonerate Mr. Garland involve him all the deeper, if they are the facts.

MR. GARLAND'S STATEMENT.

DENYING ALL KNOWLEDGE OF THE SUIT. MR. GOODE ANXIOUS TO SHOULDER ALL THE RE-SPONSIBILITY-MANY POINTS UNEXPLAINED.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 .- Attorney-General Garland arrived in Washington this morning. Immediately upon his return to the Department, after a meeting of the Cabinet, he held a private conference with Solicitor-General Goode, on official matters. At a later hour a TRIBUNE correspondent saw the Attorney-General and gave him a verbal account of the statement which have been published in THE TRIBUNE respecting the suit to annul the Bell Telephone patents. Mr. Garland declared that he had read neither the Rogers letter nor the Van Benthuysen dispatch. He continued:
"So far as my efficial connection with this suit is concerned the story is a short one and was really all told in my dispatch published in the newspapers. I did not authorize the bringing of the seit, nor did I know that such a suit had been instituted until I received the dispatch asking if I had authorized it. I will say this: One hot day in the summer-probably about the end of July or the beginning of August—General Casey Young, of Memphis, came in here accompanied by Coloi el Ganti, a lawyer of Memphis; Mr. Van Benthuysen, whom I ha never met before, and another gentleman whose name I do not recall. They brought a number of documents with them and explained that they had come to make an application in behalf of the Pan Electric Company, to have a suit brought by me as Attorney-General United States to annul the Bell patent. 1 replied that I could not consider such an application. One of them then asked me several questions which I decimed to answer, when Colonel Gantt, or General Young, spoke out and said: 'The Attorney-General is right; he cannot answer these questions.' There the conference ended and the gentlemen withdrew. They presented no written application, or other papers to me, neither did they urge, as purhaps they might have done, that simply because I was an individual stockholder in the Pan Electric Company I would not be justified as Attorney-General in refusing to consider an application from other stockholders to have the Government bring a suiagainst the Bell Company and denying them a proper and legal remedy. That phase of the subject was raised or discussed, and the matter was not brought to my attention again by any person until last week. Neither did I ever mention it to the Bolistor-General, who authorized the bringing of the acit in my absence, and he will tell you so. I have been a stockholder in the Pan Electric Company since it was organized, some two years ago. I acquired my stock when I was a private citizen, at least so far as any connection present or prospective with the Department of Justice was con-The correspondent then saw Solicitor-General Goode who said: " As soon as I could see the Attorney-General to-day I mentioned the public emiticism on account of the action of the Department in authorizing the bringing of the suit to set aside the Bell patents, and told him that I desired to shoulder the entire responsibility of that action and to be held accountable if any mistake had been made, for I had issued the order after a careful investigation of the subject and wholl, without regard to the question as to who were the parties in interest. I desire to repeat that statement to you in the most con prehensive and emphatic manner possible and to say further that Mr. Garland never mentioned the subject of the telephone litigation to me and that I did not know when I acted in the case that he had ever been asked to begin such a suit. The facts are as follows: Mr. Garland eft Washington on the evening of August 27, and I be rame Acting Attorney-General under the August 31, four days after Mr. Garland's departure, District-Atorney McCorry, of the Western District of Tennessee, addressed me a letter from Jackson, Tennes-see. In that letter he set forth the grounds for his belief that the Beil patent was frandulently obtained and applied for authority to begin proceedings to annul it. I re-ceived Mr. McCorry's letter on the morning of Septem ber 2. On the same morning Senator Harris and ex-Congressman Casey Young were in my office to discuss the natter. We talked it over and I told them that I the next morning. I went over the ease with great cure and the next morning, when General Young called for my answer, I informed him that I had aiready authorized the District-Attorney to begin the suit. That is all there is of it. It any mistake has been made, or wrong done, I alone am responsible. I simply examined the matter to see whether the proposed proceeding would be regular, and I not only became satisfied on that score, but was convinced that it was the only manner in which the that they would be successful by waiting and filing their application when Mr. Goods should be placed at the helm as acting Attorney-General. Mr. Goode's statement affords an unexpected example of the use of Senatorial influence to obtain a private end. Senator Harris, of Tennessee, is vice-president of the Pan Electric Com pany and one of its largest shareholders. It is evident that both he and General Young had been advised as to the time when District-Attorney McCorry's letter would reach the acting Attorney-General and they were on hand premptly to urge favorable action. It will be observed that Mr. Goode, does not state that he was ignorant of the fact that his superior officer and Senator Harris and General Young were all stockholders of the Pan Electric Company, for whose benefit the suit was to be instituted. He does say, however, that the case was cidered and decided by him without reference to the question as to who were the parties in interest. This seems to be a good time to call attention to one or two other matters relating to the controversy. Mr. Van Benthuysen has stated that a till passed the House authorizing the Attorney-Seneral to institute proceed ings to annul patents where allegations were made that auch patents were obtained by fraud, but that "it disappeared after reaching the Senate, and is supposed to have een stolen." A TRIBUNE correspondent has investigated this charge. The bill referred to was introduced in the House by Mr. Vance, of North Carolina, who is flow Assistant Commissioner of Patents, on December 11, 1883, and was referred to the Committee on Patents, which was appointed on December 24, with Mr. Vance as chairman. The committee organized for buriness after the holiday recess which ended on January 6, and on January 9, 1884, Mr. Vance reported to the House a substitute for his bill. The substitute passed the House on January 17, without discussion. In the report ac-companying the bill the committee said: "The law, as it now stands, and has stood since 1836, provides no way in which a patent can be declared void except upon the ground of interference with some other patent, and then mly upon the suit of some rival patentee or of some person claiming under one of the interfering patents. such adjudication affects only the rights of the parties to that particular suit and those subsequently deriving title under them." The bill was offered by Mr. Vance very soon after the actual organization in Washington of the Pan Electric Telephone Company, whose articles of association were recorded at Nashville, Tennessee, on October 30, 1883. The bill was sent to the Senate and referred to the comnittee on Patents, which never reported it back for action. Members of that committee feit sure that the measure was designed to fit a particular case and that conviction caused them to hesitate, despite the great in-terest shown in the bill by outsiders and the pressure exterest shown in the bill by outsiders and the pressure ex-orted by them to secure prompt and favorable action upon it. White its consideration was pending in the com-mittee a decision rendered in one of the circuit courts of the United States was published according to which an application to have a patent declared invalid on account of frand might be made by an individual whose interests were adversely affected by the alleged frandulent patent. That decision, a pressure of other business and the feeling that semething in the way of private interest lay back of the till resulted in its indefinite postpone-ment by the committee. It may be that the Pan Electric Company was the one whose interests this bill sought to promote. The bill was not " stolen."

MR. GARLAND'S CHANGES IN HIS DEPARTMENT. WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 .- With reference to the tatement of Senator Hoar, made at the Republican State Convention of Massachusetts yesterday, that "every faithful servant of the department, from the law clerk down to charwoman" had been removed in violation of the Civil Service law, it is stated at the Department of Justice that the only changes made by the Attorney-General were in his personal staff, and even in these confidential places many of the old employes have been retained. Not an employe whose position is within the classified service has been changed, nor a charwoman removed. Only lifteen changes have been made in the department's pay-roll of sixty persons, including three laborers who were removed for cause, and a stenographer who was urged to remain but would not consent to do so. Among the third-class clerks is a colored man who has been there for some time, and another colored man holds a $1,200 clerkship.

He will start for Wash-ington next Saturday and is expected to reach this city about the last of next week. It is not known whether he will tender his resignation or not.

MR. FOSTER WITHDRAWS FROM MADRID. WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.-Private advices have reached here from Madrid under date of September 5 to the effect that Minister Foster has left the Spanish Capital permanently. He presented his letters of recall about September 1 and left Madrid the Monday following. Hewill not sail for home until about October 1,as he is going to Italy, Greece and other countries. It is customary on the departure of Ministers from courts which they have attended to show them some social courtesy. Mr. Foster's departure was marked by the absence of all demonstration of friendship or favor. Not a soul went to the depot to see him off, except the Secretary of the Legation and two cierks. Mr. Foster has gone from Madrid, so the letter states, without having been able to do anything about the treaty which was the one thing for which he was sent back by Mr. Bayard. The Gov-ernment of Spain is represented as having been auxious to make a treaty with this country but unwilling to treat through Mr. Foster after the failure of the other treaty which was so largely to the advantage of Spain.

A ROBBER CAUGHT IN A BEAR TRAP.

Washington, Oct. 1.-The postmaster at Millersburg, Mo., has sent the following unique commu nication to the Post Office Department, detailing the workings of an original device he had conceived for the capture of mail robbers;

On or about the sixth night in June, 1885, On or about the sixth night in June, 1885, some unknown person—to me—did saw out a window which leads into my storehouse, in which I keep the poet office, and they did proceed to rob my drawer and sterehouse of wares and werehandles. I then sent and bought me a very large bear trap and set under the window where the party entered—which was in the ceilar and under a frant porch—and never fixed the window or did say a word about the matter publickly. And on the night of July 24, 1885, one R. Phil Gilaspie nid try to enter the post office and my store by the same route, and did get caught in said steel trap. I did forthwith swear out a writ for his arrest and a search warrant for the house he lived at. I found the goods which were taken in his possession, hid under his trunk. I also found, after bringing him to trial, that he was the right man, and he now lays in jail at Fulton, Mo., awaiting the Grand Jury's action.

TRIBUNE OFFICE, Oct. 2-1 a. m .- A cool wave which had dwindled to almost nothing, reached New-England and the Middle Atlantic States yesterday. The temperature rose in the Northwest, and elsewhere changed but little. The rain area in the Southwest reached into Southern Onio and Western Pennsylvania, but the precountern Onio and Western Pennsylvania, but the pre-cipitation was slight. The movement of the barometer-here was trifling during the clear weather. The tem-perature ranged between 62° and 75°, the average (644°), being 63° lower than on the corresponding day last year, and 23° lower than on Wednesday. Stationary temperature, parity cloudy weather and possibly light rain, may be expected in this city and vicinity to-day.

TAMMANY HALL PRIMARIES.

The Tammany Hall organization held primary elections last night in the different Assombly districts throughout the city, when delegates were elected to the various nominating conventions. In the VIth Assembly district two tickets were run and a good deal of excitement prevailed. The regular texet was headed by Edward McChe, while the opposition had Assembly man Edward F. Reilly at its head. Seven lundered and twenty votes were east, of which the opposition received 525. Several free fights occurred on the sidewalk, but they were soon suppressed by the police and no arrests were made. The County Convention will meet at Tammany Hall next Tuesday at 3 p. m.; the Congressional Convention of VIIIth District to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of S. S. Cox, who was appointed United States Minister to Turkey, will meet on Tnesday at 8 p. m.; at Nos. 48 and 50 Orchard-st.; the Senatorial Convention will take place on the evening of October 12; the Xth Judicial District Convention will assemble at Counber's Hall, One-hundred-and-sixty-seventh-st, and Railrond-ave, on October 17, at 8 p. m.; the several Assembly District Conventions on October 14, at 8 p. m., at their respective headquarters and the Aldermante District Conventions at the various Assembly district headquarters on the following evening. districts throughout the city, when delegates ENTHUSIASM FOR THE TICKET IN BROOKLYN. At the meeting of the Twenty-first Ward Republican Association of Brooklyn, last night, a resolu-tion to restore to membership the twenty or more Mugwumps who were expelled according to the by-laws of the body last fall, was earnestly debated. While the feeling was that it would be desirable to have them in the association, the view was pressed that as they were expelled according to the by-laws, the association would sultify liself by voting them in again and they would stutify itself by voting the annual responsed and could only regain membership by being proposed and voted for according to the by-laws. After a long debate this view prevailed and the motion to restore them was postponed indefinitely. Resolutions were adopted enthusiastically approving the State ticket headed by Davenport and Carr.

POLITICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

JOHN S. WISE RESENTING AN INSULT. STRIKING THE MAN WHO CHARGED HIM WITH LY-

ING-A QUARREL IN A BAILWAY CAR. ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 1 (Special) .- There was a large crowd aboard the train for this place which pulied out of the Potomae Station at Washington at 6:25 this evening. The occasion was the meeting to be held here at which John S. Wise, Ropublican candidate for Governor, was to apeak. ¡Captain Wise himself was present and in his usual high spirits, entertaining the crowd with anecdotes and light badinage. Another member of the party was John Ambler Smith, at one time a Republican, whom Wise supported for Congress in 1882 against his cousin, George D. Wise. Smit h now, however, is a Democrat and is supporting Fitz Hugh Lee. As Smith came along past Wise's seat, Wise said: "Hello! Smith. It's a handsome return you are making me for my support of you in 1882."

" Well," replied Smith, " I don't feel that I owe any of pleasantly. " May be you are no nearer right about that than you were recently about the position of your father in-law and brother-in-law." Smith recently represented that his father-in-law.

Smith recently represented that his father-in-law, John F. Lewis, and one of Mr. Lewis's sons were not in sympathy with the Republicans. The son referred to has just denied the statement over his own signature in The Richmond Whig.

Wise's r-joinder angered Smith, who replied: "If you say i misrepresented my father-in-law, you'lle."

As quick as thought Wise sprang to his feet and struck Smith a terrific blow in the face, turning him around and drawing blood.

Great excitement and confusion followed, but order was restored and Alexandria was reached without further demonstration on either man's part. Wise was met at the station by friends and driven to his hotel. Smith slighted breathing vengeance.

The news of the quarrel served to increase the crowd at Armory Hall, in Reyal-st, where the meeting was held, the building being packed white hundreds were unable to gain admittance. There were many Democrate present and some of them were in an ugly humor. Wise was in good voice and in his happlest vein, and he scored the Democracy in the most mercliess manner. His ridicule of Fitzhingh Lee's cavalcade, with which he opened his speech, called forth wild applause from the Republicans and interruptions from Lee's friends. These interruptions were continued until at last Wise was forced to stop. With a hot parting shot he retired. retired.

John Ambler Smith, deep in liquor, talked of send-Wise a "message."
Captain Wise said to a Tribune correspondent:
"Everything looks favorable for us. My audiences are uniformly large and trieually, and we are galing every day. I have made fifty specches in the Southwest and in the Valley, and the situation in those pivotal sections is most auspicious. The Democrats cannot beat us unless they stuff the ballot-boxes, which they are getting ready to attempt. This pretended conversion of colored men to their side has no real basis. The colored men are all right, but the Democrats are getting ready to account for losses of Republican votes in districts where the colored vote is strongest. They intend to try and count some of that vote for their own ticket. I think, however, that they will fail."

REPUBLICANS ANIMATED AND EARNEST. CALLERS ON MR. DAVENPORT AND GENERAL CARR -EXPRESSIONS OF OPINION.

Congressman Davenport was at the Gilsey House throughout yesterday, going out only in the norning for a short drive and to a photographer's. His rooms were througed with a steady stream of visitors all day long. His brother-in-law, Sherman S. Regers, assisted him in the reception of his guests. Among those who called were Senator Evarts, Levi P. Moron, Edward Mitchell, Ratiroad Commissioner John O'Donnell, S. Van Ronsselaer Cruger, Sherman Williams, Colonel John Schuyler Crosby, William Waldorf Astor. Silas Seymour, William H. Guion, Edmund Stephenson, D. V. Howell of Orange County, ex-Governor Cornell, Silas B. Dutcher, General Denis F. Burke, ex-Collector C. A. Gould of Buffalo, State Senator J. Sloat Fassett, A. W. Tenney of Brooklyn, Assemblyman Haskell, James S. enator Miller, Judge J. S. Graham of Newburg, Assemsenator Miller, Judge J. S. Graham of Newburg, Assemblyman Walter Howe and ex-Congressman Richard Crowley. Nearly all of these gentlemen paid visits also to the rooms of the State Committee.

The tenor of expression among callers continued in the strain of nesurance heard during the meeting of the committee. Mr. Tenney, who has been in the mountains all summer to regain his heatin, said: "The canvass has opened splendidly. No one can dispute the bright Republican prospect." Ex-Collector Gould said that Buffalo Republicans were "enjoying peace and harmony and the good outlook." General Burke said: "I believe that as soon as the Irish voters who stood by Republicans last year realize that the Administration is in favor of Mr. Hill, and that their votes for Hill are votes for the first English President of the United States, they will come out as strongly for Davenport as they did for Blaine. Mr. Davenport's interview in The Tribuxe on his return from Europe shows him to be a thorough American." The Republican State Committee got fairly well set-of the Executive Committee, and Secretary Concaring went to their homes to remain over Sunday, Captain Cole and Secretary Vrooman will go to their homes on Saturday. All will be here on Monday to remain through the campaign. Mr. Davesport will return to bath to-day to prepare for the campaign. General Carr went to Albany last night. He had a large number of callers yesterday at the Gilsey House, and received attentions that were of the most flattering character.

nd received attentions that were of the most naturally haracter.
General Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut, mingled with the Republicans about the Gilsey House last even-ing, and expressed the opinion that they had the best foot forward in this State.

JUDGE BARNARD NOMINATED BY TWO PARTIES. The Republican and the Democratic convenions for the !Id Judicial District of the State met yesterday in Brooklyn, and united to renominating Judge Joseph F. Barnard, of Poughkeepsie. The Republican Convention met in the Supreme Court room and was presided over by W. W. Goodrich. A resolution was fored by Denman Strong, providing for a committee of three to ask the Democratic Convention to meet in joint session with the Republican, but as the Democrats had made their nomination this step was not taken. Joshua M. Van Cott presented the name of Judge Barnard as a candidate. At ort, led by W. A. N. Cadmus, to nominate a Republican modulate was defeated, and Judge Barrett was made ominee, hony Barrett presided over the Democratic Con Authory Barrett presided over the Democratic Convention, which met in the adjoining count-room at the same time. The name of Judge Barnard was presented by W. E. shields, and he was non-nated by acclamation. Judge Barnard has served upon the bench for twenty years. His first term was for six years, and in 1871 he was renominated and elected for fourteen years. His salary is $10,000 and he receives $4,000 a year additional for frawing jurors. As he is sixty-two years old he can only serve eight years. He is Chief Judge of the Supreme Court for the Counties of Kings, Queeis, Suffolk, Richmond, Westchester, Patnam, Orange, Rockland and Dutchess. In politics he is a Democrat.

TWO LOCAL DEMOCRATIC TICKETS.

All the indications point to two local Demoeratic tickets in November. Tanmany Hall is this year for peace and harmony, together with the nomination for Sheriff and as many others as it can obtain. The County Democracy, on the other hand, are now in the same position as Tammany has been for several years. The majority are anxious to try conclusions with Tam-The majority are anxious to try conclusions with Tammany, believing that their ticket would win. The indersement of Judge Barrett is practically serving notice on Taminary Hall that he must be nominated—that, in any case, he will receive the support of the County Democracy. This is significant. When Richard Croker, now Fire Commissioner, was being tried on a charge of murier growing out of the election affray in First ave., Judge Barrett sitting in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, was the presiding Judge. The jury disagreed and a new trial has never been had. Mr. Croker believes that Judge Barrett ruled arainst him, although the general opinion has been that the Judge held the seals of justice with an even balance. Some time ago when there was informal talk of Tamunany and the County Democracy uniting on a local ticket the clique with whom Mr. Croker is powerful in Taminany Hall informed the County Democracy leaders that Judge Barrett would not be acceptable. The indorsement of Judge Barrett is the County Democracy racy's reply. racy's reply.

QUIET AT THE DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS. It was as quiet as the grave at the Democratic headquarters yesterday. Chairmen O'Brien and Parker were both in the city, but there were few caliers and the corridors of the Hoffman House seemed deserted. Judge Parker received the newspaper men and said that the work of the committee was aiready begun, under William L. Muiler's direction as secretary. The under William L. Matters from this time out. Chairma Junge will remain here from this time out. Chairma John O'Brien went to Yorkers last night to arrange for John O'Brien went to Yonkers last night to arrange for the removal of his family from their summer home to a house in the city. Among the callers at headquarters were Charles E. Loew, Elward Kearney, Richard J. Morrisson, John H. Mooney, Park Commissioner Beeck-man, Adjutant-General Farnsworth, Coionel Gillett, Theodore W. Myers, Police Justice Ford, W. H. J. Mer-cer, Congressman Stahlnecker and ex-Congressman Waldo Hutchins. ROCKLAND COUNTY DEMOCRATS ANGRY.

The Democratic convention to nominate a The Democratic convention to nominate a candidate to represent Westchester and Rockiand Counties in the State Senate, in the place of Henry C. Nelson, met at Tarrytown yesterday to complete their labors. On September 17 the ballot stood at the close of the day, Nelson 10, J. W. Felter 8, and Richard Lathers 2. J. H. Hogan, one of the delegates from the First District, a Felter man, was prevented by steckness from attending, and Charles H. Bevens, whom he appointed as his alternate, voted in favor of Nelson. Yesterday Hogan appeared to take his seat, to which the chairman claimed he was entitled; the friends of Nelson appealed from the decision of the chair and he was not sustained. The minth ballot resulted in Nelson securing 11 votes and Felter 9. The Rockland County friends of Mr. Felter went away disappointed and angry at the way in which matters were manipulated.

NOMINATIONS IN WESTCHESTER COUNTY. The Republicans of Westchester County held their annual convention yesterday for the nomination of candidates to fill the several offices which will become vacant on January 1. Each of the twenty-two towns of the county was fully represented, 135 delegates being present. Ex-Collector William H. Robertson called the convention in Lafayette Hall to order, and proposed William B. Davidson, of Dobbs Ferry, for chairman, whose appearance as such was enthusiastically cheered. For the office of sheriff George W. Farnum, of Yonkers, was declared the choice of the convention. Minott M. Silliman, of White Plains, was nominated by reclamation for surrogate. Charles W. Mehser, of New Robelic, and Dr. Charles J. Nordquist, of Tuckance, were nominated for coroners. John H. Baxter, of Peckskill, was nominated by acclamation for justice of sessions. Judge Robertson offered a resolution approving the platform adopted and the ticket nominated at the State Convention, which was carried with great enthusiasm.

AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE NOT PROBABLE. The Evening Telegram yesterday printed a story that Chamberlain Ivins, Hubert O. Thompson and others of the Democratic leaders were so opposed to Governor Hill that they proposed running Mayor Grace as an independent Democratic candidate for Grace as an independent Democratic candidate for Governor.

Mr. Thompson said that so far as he knew there was not one word of truth in the story. He had allowed itmself to be named as one of the Executive Committee of the State Committee with great rejuctance, because his time would be taken up largely with the County Democracy organization, but having become one of the Executive Committee he intended to do whatever work he could to contribute to the success of the ticket. The Mayor went to Finshing early yesterday afternoon. Those who are in a position to know how he feels politically laugh at the suggestion of his becoming an independent candidate, and say that the story is too absurd to warrant a noment's consideration.

DALLAS SANDERS NOMINATED FOR SHERIFF. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1 (Special) .- The adjourned Democratic Convention to nominate a candidate for Sheriff reassembed to-day and nominated Dallas Samders, a young lawyer. He has been Editor of The Legal Intelligencer, a member of Councils, and was selected by Attorney-General Brewster to prosecute the South Caro-linians who were charged with stuffing ballot boxes and driving the negroes away from the polls.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN. Senator Warner Miller is expected to speak in the Brooklyn Academy of Music this month for the Republican State ticket.

The colored Republican Central Committee of the city and county of New-York met last night at the office of The Propressive American. No. 127 West Twenty-lifting, and effected a reorganization. Delegates were present from sixteen districts. John J. Freeman was elected chairman, J. E. Seaman, vice-chairman; Georga W. Myers, secretary; M. R. Pool, treasurer; John W. Dazler, chairman of executive committee; Ell Pierre, secretary-ta-arms.
